DOUG BANDOW, SENIOR FELLOW, CATO INSTITUTE

Doug Bandow is a Senior Fellow at the Cato Institute and a columnist for the American Conservative online. He served as a Special Assistant to President Ronald Reagan. During that time he worked with the Military Manpower Task Force, responsible for assessing the performance of the All-Volunteer Force and recommending policies to improve manpower recruitment and retention.

Previously a columnist for Forbes online, nationally syndicated columnist with Copley News Service, and editor of the monthly political magazine Inquiry, he has been widely published in such periodicals as Time, Newsweek, and Fortune, as well as leading newspapers including the New York Times, Wall Street Journal and Washington Post. He has written several books, including Human Resources and Defense Manpower (National Defense University), Foreign Follies: America's New Global Empire (Xulon), The Politics of Plunder: Misgovernment in Washington (Transaction), and Beyond Good Intentions: A Biblical View of Politics (Crossway). He received his B.S. in Economics from Florida State University in 1976 and his J.D. from Stanford University in 1979.

TED HOLLANDER, AUTHOR

Mr. Hollander received a Bachelors degree in Economics from Harvard College in 1957, and, in 1960, after a tour of duty with the U. S. Marine Corps, he joined The Presray Corporation in Pawling, NY, then a manufacturer of engineered rubber products for the aerospace, defense, nuclear power and semiconductor industries, now specializing in barriers for flood protection and biocontainment. In 1989 he took over as President of The Presray Corporation, and later also as Board Chairman, a position that he holds to this day.
