The National Commission on Military, National, and Public Service is an 11-member bipartisan commission tasked for the first time in American history, with comprehensively and holistically reviewing the Selective Service System, along with military, national, and public service. Throughout 2019, the Commission will host fourteen public hearings on policy options it is considering for its final report. The Commission will gain insights from panelists as it develops recommendations for its final report to the Congress, the President, and the American people in March 2020.
